VOL. XXI.—NO. 6373. PORTLAND, OREGON, THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 22, 1881. PRICE—TEN CENTS.

THE HONORED DEAD.

Arrival of the President's Corpse in Washington.

PROGRESS OF THE SOLEMN PROCESSION FROM ELBERON TO THE NATION'S CAPITAL—ITS RECEPTION.

The Body to Lie in State in the Rotunda of the Capitol—Preparations for the Ceremonies of to-day—The Catafalque and Decorations, Etc.

SPECIAL DISPATCHES TO THE OREGONIAN.

LONG BRANCH, Sept. 21.—Dr. Bliss, just from the president's cottage, says the records will show first the remarkable extent of the wound, its devious course and the impaired condition of his blood, together with several complications which were occasioned by it, and a detailed history of the case from hour to hour since the patient was wounded.

Watching the President's Remains.

Secretary Brown and Warren S. Young sat with the remains of the president last night.

Other Arrivals at Elberon.

Harry Garfield arrived at 4 P. M. and was greatly affected. Col. Corbin and Drs. Barnes, Woodward and Reyburn also arrived.

Cabinet Consultation.

The cabinet and Arthur consulted to-day but decided to talk of this proceedings. Blaine officially announced the death of President Garfield and the accession of Arthur to the Chinese, Japanese and South American Legations by Telegraph.

Cumulative Sympathy.

[illegible], Sept. 21.—Many governors and prominent officials from every section of the country and [illegible] are sending condolences and touching messages of kindness to Mrs. Garfield.

A Fair Sample.

The following from Gov. Long, of Massachusetts, is one of the thousands of messages received by Mrs. Garfield: "I have no words in which to tell you what tenderness every heart and home in Massachusetts offers you its sympathy and admiration. We are grateful for the achievements and example of his noble life. Our commonwealth mourns the death of the president with her people, [illegible] loved and trusted."

The Funeral Train.

[illegible]—Church bells are tolling and the crowd [illegible]. The cars which are to be used for the [illegible] have just been run up to Francklyn [illegible].

A Vast Crowd Assembled at Elberon.

[illegible]—The engine and coaches are now in [illegible]. The entire train is draped in [illegible] and presents a funeral appearance. [illegible] new arrivals surge into the surrounding [illegible]. Every moment Ocean avenue, for blocks [illegible], is blocked with vehicles. The [illegible] is composed of all classes, is very [illegible] and speculative.

Viewing the Remains.

[illegible] Sept. 21, 10 A. M.—Arrangements have [illegible] and notice given that all desiring [illegible] view the remains of the late chief, [illegible] line has formed and people are [illegible] single file through the cottage. Two soldiers [illegible] at each side of the entrance door [illegible] more than one person entering at a time. [illegible] is very unpretentious, being covered [illegible] black cloth, and with the exception of [illegible] mountings is perfectly plain. The [illegible] is a large V shaped sago palm, which [illegible] the foot of the casket upwards. The [illegible] lying in one of the rooms on the first [illegible] cottage, and people pass in at the east [illegible] without stopping, out at the west. The [illegible] of the late president is so changed that [illegible] with his natural countenance would [illegible] him.

Appearance of the Corpse.

[illegible] of the president after death, [illegible] the undertaker, said: "The face has a [illegible] appearance. There was no look of pain upon [illegible], just as if he had fallen quietly [illegible] he endured extreme pain, his sufferings [illegible] short. His form is greatly wasted, [illegible] by any means."

[illegible] of the Body.

[illegible] will be dressed in the same suit of [illegible] in delivering his inaugural, unless [illegible] of a pair of silk stockings knit [illegible] mother, and lately received. The [illegible] 6 inches long, covered with black [illegible] trimmings, and mouldings, [illegible] bars of solid silver. Inside it [illegible] with tufted white satin. The coffin [illegible], and the inscription, written by [illegible] MacVeagh, is as follows:

JAMES ABRAM GARFIELD;
[illegible] 19, 1831; Died President of the United States, September 19, 1881.

Another Crazy Fool.

[illegible]—About sunset a well dressed [illegible] had been waiting about Elberon hotel [illegible] the afternoon, sent to Col. Rockwell [illegible] cottage the following note:

"[illegible] the power of the Lord Jesus [illegible] wants to pray for the president."
JAMES IRWIN WILEY.

[illegible] was that of a person partly educated. [illegible] paid no attention to the note. [illegible] pious crank walked down across [illegible] the sentry's beat. He was challenged [illegible] not stop except to say, "I want to [illegible] I am ordained by Jesus Christ to [illegible] pray for him." Instructions to the [illegible] authorize him to pass even such a [illegible], so he was firmly stopped him, and [illegible] led him quietly away. This is [illegible] that has appeared here within a [illegible].

[illegible] the Corpse.

[illegible] 21.—The president's left hand is [illegible] after the manner he laid in [illegible] done in order to make his resemblance [illegible] life as possible. Nobody will be [illegible] the death chamber, which has been [illegible] as it was when the president was [illegible]. The body is so greatly shrunken [illegible] had to be resorted to to give [illegible] appearance of a king. In addition to [illegible] from his illness, the operation [illegible] with the autopsy has left the body in [illegible] condition. A plaster cast was [illegible] yesterday, as well as of his right [illegible] the cast of his hand it was somewhat [illegible] so this hand will not be seen. The [illegible] upon the face, prior to taking the [illegible] the features somewhat and slightly [illegible] of the face, so the appearance is [illegible] natural even than it was just after [illegible] president had a massive head, and the [illegible] very prominently. The cheeks [illegible] beard has been so arranged about [illegible] so as to conceal that scar, and [illegible] made about the pillow as to still [illegible] the swelling which sapped away [illegible] undertaker says, in his opinion, it [illegible] to expose the body after 1 leaves [illegible] of fluids in embalming are such [illegible] hardened the features. A number [illegible] who have been so closely watching [illegible] all these weary weeks, were [illegible] for the first view of the body, [illegible] either side of the entrance. The [illegible] the hallway of the lower [illegible] soldier at the head and foot. [illegible] coffin was black, with silver [illegible] the top was a silver plate. The [illegible] with white satin, only the face and [illegible] visible, and one only needed to [illegible] remained of James A. Garfield [illegible] the features so familiar during [illegible] to those who knew General Garfield's [illegible] portraits, could not have been recognized. [illegible] the features were no longer clear; [illegible] expression about the lower lip which [illegible] him best would recognize. The [illegible], and the brow had lost its massiveness [illegible] which characterized it in life. The [illegible] whispered remark of all as they gazed [illegible] form with a shudder, was "I never [illegible] recognized him. How he must have [illegible] shrunken early for a told how [illegible] most marvellous that he lived so [illegible] crowd slowly entered and left the [illegible] of the little chapel in the distance was [illegible] could be only faintly heard above [illegible] the train.

Religious Services at Elberon.

[illegible], Sept. 21.—At 9½ o'clock Chief Justice [illegible], Secretary and Mrs. Blaine, Secretary and [illegible] Windom, Secretary and Mrs. Hunt, Postmaster [illegible] and Mrs. James, Secretaries Lincoln, Kirkwood and MacVeagh arrived at Francklyn cottage, [illegible] were closed to visitors. Religious [illegible] were conducted by Rev. Charles J. Young, of Long Branch at the request of Mrs. Garfield. [illegible] present besides the family and attendants, members of the cabinet and their wives, and a [illegible] friends, numbering in all not more [illegible] the moment for service was at [illegible] windows and doors were closed and a [illegible] silence prevailed.

The Funeral Cortege.

[illegible], Sept. 21.—Immediately after the conclusion of the services at Francklyn cottage Mrs. Garfield, accompanied by her son Harry, Col. Swaim, [illegible] and Mrs. Rockwell, Miss Mollie Garfield, [illegible] Rockwell and Dr. Boynton left the cottage and [illegible] the first coach. The cabinet and wives followed [illegible] took seats in the second coach. Mrs. Garfield was heavily veiled, and passing to the train exhibited the same fortitude which has characterized her manner throughout.

In addition to the named ate members of the family, the following composed the party on the train: Dr. Reyburn; Private Secretary J. Stanley Brown; [illegible] clerk Warren S. Young; John R. [illegible], chief clerk of the postoffice department; [illegible] Jamison, railway mail service, Postoffice department; [illegible] Munson; C. J. James, son of the postmaster general; Mr. Jay Stone, private secretary to Secretary Lincoln; ex-Sheriff Daggett, of Brooklyn; Col. D. O. Corbin, and other attendants upon the late president and Mrs. Garfield during their sojourn here.

Just before the train was ready to start the following New Jersey state officers, accompanied by members of the legislature, arrived and acted as a guard of honor: Gov. George C. Ludlow, Major G. Mott, adjutant general; Wm. S. Striker, quartermaster general; Lewis Perrin, Gen. Willoughby Weston, Gen. [illegible] W. Spencer, Col. S. Perrine Jr., Secretary of State; Henry C. Kelsey, Assistant Secretary of State [illegible] B. Hal, Comptroller, J. J. T. Anderson, [illegible] George M. Wright, and the private secretary to the governor, James D. Nash.

A few minutes before 10 o'clock the casket was removed from the cottage and placed in the third coach. The attendants and others who accompanied the party took seats in the fourth car. Exactly at 10 o'clock the train started from the cottage moving from the grounds very slowly. The train reached Elberon station at 10:03 A. M. and ran [illegible] the road about a quarter of a mile from the station, where it halted. To this point the special train which brought President Arthur and General Grant from New York was run, and guards were stationed in the vicinity to prevent any annoyance from the crowd, there being from 500 to 600 people in the immediate neighborhood. As soon as President Arthur's train was stopped alongside the train which bore the remains, the president and General Grant stepped across and entered the second car of the funeral train. Gen. Grant took the second front seat [illegible] the right hand side of the car. President Arthur sat in the next seat in front of Gen. Grant by himself, and the seat in front of that, in which President Arthur sat, was occupied by Secretary Blaine. As the train moved off President Arthur had his hands on the back of Secretary Blaine's seat, and was leaning forward engaged in conversation with the secretary.

The train passed Princeton Junction at 11:50; the track was strewn for 100 yards with beautiful flowers. It passed Trenton, 61 miles, at 11:45 and stopped at Bristol for water. Passed West Philadelphia at 1:14; time 152 minutes. The same distance was made by the train bearing him to Long Branch in 117 minutes. There were large crowds at the depot, all deeply affected and who stood with [illegible].

OCEAN GROVE, N. J., Sept. 21.—The funeral train bearing the body of the late president passed here at 10:12. The railroad for half a mile on both sides was lined with people. On the platform of the depot were from 400 to 500 ladies and gentlemen. As the train passed men stood with uncovered heads absolutely silent. The bells tolled, and the crowd dispersed. Flags were at half-mast and buildings draped.

WILMINGTON, Del., Sept. 21.—Ten thousand people saw the funeral train pass this city, and the fire bells tolled.

The Remains to Pass Right Through.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 20.—No business is done to-day. MacVeagh telegraphs that the remains will not stop here or elsewhere along the route.

Arrival at Washington.

The train bearing the remains of the late president Garfield arrived at Washington at 4:41. A vast throng of people assembled about the depot to do honor to the illustrious dead, every avenue and approach being densely packed with citizens. A large force of police is on duty. The military were drawn up against the east side of Sixth street, with the right resting on Pennsylvania avenue. Upon the opposite side of the street, directly the depot, was a long line of carriages preceded by a hearse, which was drawn up directly at the main gate on the Sixth street side. The hearse used was furnished by undertaker Spear of this city, and is known as the centennial hearse, it having been awarded the prize at the centennial exhibition. It was draped in black of rich and heavy material, wholly unrelieved by any other color, and was drawn by six iron gray horses whose trappings were also draped in black. Just before the train entered the depot, the platform was cleared by the police, and officers of the army and navy to the number of 130 formed in single rank upon the left, facing the train. As the train slowly rolled into the depot every head upon the platform was uncovered, and a stillness as of the grave pervaded the vast throng, which for more than an hour had been patiently waiting by the roadside. Soon Mrs. Garfield, assisted by Secretary Blaine, descended from the car, and taking his arm upon her right, and that of Lieutenant Harvey upon the left, walked directly to the carriage in waiting. Her face was completely concealed by a heavy black veil which hung nearly to the ground, and whatever emotions she may have experienced were sacred from the sight of those who gazed upon her. She entered the state carriage and was followed by her daughter, Mollie Garfield, her son Harry, Mrs. Rockwell and Miss Rockwell. Arthur leaned upon the arm of Senator Jones. Grant was present, with the cabinet, physicians and attendants, and MacVeagh's wife and two sons. The first three carriages received the ladies of the party who did not accompany the procession to the capitol. After they had moved on a short distance from the entrance, the coffin appeared, borne on the shoulders of soldiers of the 2d artillery, detailed from the arsenal barracks. On the right, in single file, and headed by Adjutant-General Drum were officers of the navy, under the lead of Rear Admiral Nichols.

The external mourning emblems at the capitol are not very elaborate or profuse, but arranged in perfect taste. The black drapery, contrasted with the white marble of the edifice, forms a spectacle of sombre beauty rarely equaled. The rotunda is heavily draped almost to the top and the gilt frames of historical paintings are closely covered with crape. The catafalque in the center of the rotunda, although simple and plain by wish of the family, is of the finest material, and the very handsome base is 12 by 1½ feet and eight inches high, covered with heavy black cloth. On this is an upper portion six feet long by 2½ wide at the top and two high. It increases gradually in size to the base. This portion is covered with black cloth in vertical folds with large silk bows at the corners and heavy silk fringed edges. The silver mouldings at the top complete the catafalque. The entrances to the halls of the senate and house are also tastefully draped with mourning.

District Proclamation.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 21.—The district commissioners held a meeting to-day and have promulgated the following: It becomes the sorrowful duty of the commissioners to announce to the people of the District of Columbia the death of the president of the United States, who expired at Long Branch at 10:35 P. M., on the 19th inst. Illustrious in arms, in the forum, in the halls of legislation, and as chief magistrate of the nation, the nation mourns his sad and untimely demise, and bows in sorrow to the dispensation of the great ruler of the universe. As a slight expression of the universal feeling of national bereavement, the commissioners direct that public offices and business of the district, including public schools, be closed and suspended until further orders, and that public buildings in the district be appropriately draped in mourning, and they earnestly recommend to their fellow citizens the observance of perfect quiet and order during the progress of the obsequies of the nation's dead, and such manifestation of respect and sorrow as befits the solemn occasion. The district militia are ordered to hold themselves in readiness for any duty to which they may be assigned under the orders of the general of the army.

To Appear in Uniform.

Adjutant General Drum has issued an order for volunteer troops of the District of Columbia and marines to assemble in full uniform and in mourning, at Baltimore and Potomac depot. A similar order has been issued by Rear-Admiral Nichols, acting secretary of the navy, to naval officers here.

The Army Notified.

The following order was issued this evening by General Sherman: General order No. 71. The following order of the secretary of war announces to the army the death of James A. Garfield, president of the United States:

WAR DEPARTMENT, Sept. 21, 1881.

With profound sorrow the secretary of war announces to the army that James A. Garfield, president of the United States, died at Elberon, N. J., at 35 minutes before 11 P. M.

Gathering of the Senators.

The following senators will be here before Thursday evening: Hawley, Edmunds, Sewell, Bayard, Blair, Mitchell, Sherman, Jones of Florida, Howard and Salisbury. Senators Morgan, Johnston, Pugh, Ingalls and McMillan, are here. Platt of Connecticut, is in the Adirondacks, and health too precarious for the journey. Many representatives have started for here.

Department Offices Closed.

The treasury and other departments will be closed from to-day until Saturday.

The Assassin and his Safety.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 21.—At 2:15 A. M. there was no disturbance on the streets or about the jail. The guards were increased in number and their lines were farther out. Guiteau has not been informed of the death of the president unless he knew it by the tolling bells. Hundreds of places are draped in mourning and others will be.

Thinks he can't be Convicted.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 21.—The jail is quiet. Guiteau is restless, and still engaged in writing reflections on the death of the president. It is now generally believed by lawyers that he can not be convicted of murder.

Preparing for the Reception of the Body.

CLEVELAND, Sept. 21.—A mass meeting of citizens was had this afternoon in the Tabernacle, which was filled to overflowing. Speeches fitting to the occasion were made by Judge Rufus P. Ranney, Bishop Gilmour of this Catholic diocese, several clergymen and others. A committee was appointed to arrange for the reception of the body of the lamented president, and care for it while in the city. Gen. James Barnett, marshal of the day when Lincoln's body lay in state here sixteen years ago, will be marshal, and the architect who designed the catafalque in which the presidential remains then lay, has been directed to make plans for another.

The President's Sons and Relatives.

The orphaned sons at Mentor were not informed of their father's death until after breakfast this morning. For a time they wept bitterly, but afterwards were quiet and bore their affliction with almost philosophical calmness. At Mentor are also Joseph Rudolph, Mrs. Garfield's brother, and her aged father. Both were much affected, yet the result was not unexpected by them.

State Troops Concentrated.

COLUMBUS, O., Sept. 21.—State troops are being concentrated at Cleveland to pay honor to the deceased president.

St. Louis will Send a Delegation.

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 21.—The mayor's proclamation orders the closing of places of amusement and suspension of business from 2 to 4 P. M. on Monday. A delegation of 22 city officials will go to Cleveland. The mayor offers the use of the hearse used when President Lincoln was interred at Springfield to the mayor of Cleveland. Its owner, Jesse Arnold, tenders it. It is a massive, handsome vehicle, and cost $4000.

The Funeral to be Held on Tuesday.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Sept. 20.—Secretary Lincoln telegraphs the governor that funeral services will be held Tuesday, at 2 P. M., at Cleveland. The governor has issued a proclamation eulogistic of Garfield, referring to the expression that "God reigns and the government at Washington still lives," and recommending the people to assemble at their places of worship when the funeral services were being held in Cleveland and hold fitting services. The governor sent condolences to Mrs. Garfield and a dispatch to Arthur promising to maintain his administration. In the name of the people of Illinois the governor will send 100 officers of the state of Illinois to the president's funeral.

Mrs. Garfield Accepts the Offer.

ELBERON, Sept. 20.—Mrs. Garfield accepts the tender of space in Lake View cemetery for the president's grave and will select the spot when the party arrives in Cleveland.

Will Assist in Ceremonies if Possible.

CHICAGO, Sept. 20.—The several masonic societies met to-night and if their brother Garfield was interred with masonic ceremonies, they would attend in a body.

Utterances of the Press.

Innumerable able editorials are coming to hand from papers all over the country telling of the high esteem in which the dead president was universally held. They give evidence of the tender and honest love which his sufferings and manhood have inspired in the people.

PRESIDENT ARTHUR.

The New President's Movements.

LONG BRANCH, Sept. 20.—At 12:15 [illegible] special train from New York with President Arthur and [illegible] arrived at Elberon station. [illegible] A few minutes before the arrival of the train [illegible] carriages, which had been placed at the [illegible] left Attorney-General MacVeagh's cottage for the station. The [illegible] were occupied by Postmaster-General James, Secretaries Windom and Hunt, and Attorney-General MacVeagh. [illegible] President Arthur [illegible] the first carriage was occupied by [illegible] and Secretary Blaine. [illegible] second contained Secretary Lincoln, General MacVeagh, Postmaster-General James [illegible] Secretary Kirkwood [illegible]. As President Arthur and his escort [illegible] hotel on his way, [illegible] Attorney General [illegible] the sentiment became intense, [illegible] persons rushed after the carriages [illegible] them to the cottage. The [illegible] of the house and doors were closed. The [illegible] continued to increase, and it was [illegible] to call out a special guard. [illegible] Arthur left his house at this morning [illegible]. He was dressed in mourning, [illegible] covered with a heavy black [illegible] accompanied by his private secretary, and private passenger. Alexander [illegible] understood that Grant and wife will [illegible] train. The president looked careworn and anxious.

Untimely Ardor.

ELBERON, Sept. 21.—Upon the arrival of Arthur, a very few so far forgot the proprieties of the occasion as to throw their hats in the air and wave in a salute. After session of the cabinet President Arthur paid a visit of condolence to Mrs. Garfield. The meeting is described as very affecting, and the president was overcome with emotion.

President Arthur will go to Cleveland.

8:30 A. M.—It is understood that President Arthur has determined to go to Cleveland accompanied with the cabinet. An additional guard has been placed about Francklyn cottage for the purpose of preserving order. Hundreds of people are arriving momentarily.

Arthur's Visitors.

NEW YORK, Sept. 20.—President Arthur reached home alone at 6 P. M. He said he wouldn't go to Washington yet, nor receive any callers, but would retire for the night. Shortly after Colonel George Bliss arrived and entered, his home with Senator Logan and Police Commissioner French, and remained for some time. At 11 a coupe drove up and Grant alighted and entered. Ex-Senator Conkling has not yet visited President Arthur. Elihu Root, Alderman Earl, Commissioner Wallace and Senator Jones are also among the visitors. General Grant left shortly after 11. When President Arthur went to Long Branch to-day four in a squad of detectives were on the same train. They were dressed in citizens' clothes, and it is doubtful if the president knew they were officers if he noticed them at all.

A Body Guard for President Arthur.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 20.—The following was issued on white paper with a black border and freely circulated:

WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. [illegible], midnight.

Fellow Citizens:—In the name of the new headless trunk of the republic you are called upon to join at this minute a notice "The Holy Alliance of Vigilants" in order to shield and guard until congress provides, the one and only life that stands at this hour, under the constitution, between order and anarchy. Let us gain to it that peace be upon the ashes of him now enshrined in the hearts of his countrymen, and that his sacred dust shall not be scattered to the four winds by factions or revolution. "God reigns and the government at Washington still lives." Address the secretary of the national [illegible] of America, 2½ Thirteenth street.

Harrisburg Ceremonies.

HARRISBURG, Sept. 20.—Half-hour guns were fired all day. Senator Cameron presided at the town meeting.

Southern Praise.

CHICAGO, Sept. 21.—The southern papers vie with each other in praise for the dead president.

NEW YORK, Sept. 21.—At a midnight a party of gentlemen, consisting of ex-Gov. Stevenson, of Kentucky; ex-Congressman Phillips, of Vermont; Mr. Merrick, a well-known Washington lawyer; General Lawton, of Savannah, Ga., and Senator Jonas, of Louisiana, entered the club and were joined by W. L. Brown. These gentlemen spent some time commenting on the death of the president and speculating as to the probable policy of Arthur. Jonas said the people of his state would be profoundly grieved at Garfield's death. They had felt great sympathy for him, and earnestly wished for his recovery. His policy up to the time of the shooting had pleased them greatly. They discovered with much satisfaction that he was in favor of the south and of the development of navigation on the Mississippi river. "I took great pleasure," added Jonas, "in supporting him in his contest with Conkling, and so in fact did other southern senators, and was prepared to support him in the future." Gen. Lawton said some feeling existed in Georgia, and although the south, as in Louisiana, called attention to the fact that Garfield had promised to attend the cotton exposition in Atlanta, the state fair at Nashville and the Yorktown centennial, and at each place his visit was looked forward to with much pleasure. Brown said that Arthur was a strong, liberal minded man and whatever might be his regard for Conkling, he was not to be controlled by another. He did not think that the policy of Arthur's administration would differ very widely from that of Garfield. Phillips said the people of Vermont were disposed to trust Arthur.

Universally Beloved.

LOUISVILLE, Sept. 21.—The Courier-Journal says: The president is dead and all the nation mourns. The president is dead and all the nation responds to that touch of sympathy which makes the whole world stand uncovered in the presence of calamity. For tragedies, ever calamitous, are doubly so when the spring from murder, and attach themselves to the head of the state, of the symbol of power, the representative of the people and the law. If ever mortal stood in these relations to his country and his time this man did. It was the universal sense that he did so which brought around his bedside his fellow-citizens without distinction of political opinion and caused women who had never seen him to pray for him and little children who conceived not the emergency nor the magnitude of the contingencies hanging upon his life to ask each day after his well being as if he were a father ill and dying in some far off place.

Commercial Resolutions of Respect.

NEW YORK, Sept. 21.—The chamber of commerce held a solemn meeting to-day in view of the president's death. Resolutions were adopted and much feeling evident.

Senator Jones on Hand.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 21.—Senator Jones of Nevada disembarked here from a limited express which preceded the funeral train, and boarded the latter when the train slowed up. Postmaster General James alighted and shook hands with two or three friends.

Imposing Demonstrations to be Held in San Francisco.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 2[illegible].—After adjournment of the meeting of the chamber of commerce last evening the joint commissioners held an executive session. It was decided to invite all foreign consuls and officers and crews of foreign men of war in the harbor to take part in the obsequies. Gov. Perkins will be asked to permit the latter to march bearing arms. The details of the procession are not yet determined but there will be not less than 15 military bands and a catafalque drawn by eight horses. The grand lodge of Masons are invited to conduct the ceremonies according to the ritual of the order. Invitations will be extended to the army and navy league and various civic, military and benevolent organizations, to take place in line. The chamber of commerce last evening adopted lengthy resolutions drawn up by a committee appointed for that purpose, and a similar act on has been taken by numerous organizations, including the fire exempts, the grand lodge, B'nai B'rith, a army and navy league, Geo. H. Thomas post of grand army of the republic and others. The harbor commissioners and board of health adjourned their meetings last night at the industrial school. The superintendent has been in the daily habit since the attack on the late president of reading to the inmates the bulletins of his condition. Yesterday the announcement of his death drew forth from the pupils marked expressions of feeling. Nothing will be left undone by the committees having the matter in hand to make the celebration of the obsequies of the most imposing character. There will be no lack of means. The 4th of July committee has now in hand nearly $5000, and further amounts will be forthcoming if required. Discussion of the one topic of interest has almost entirely absorbed attention, to the general neglect of business and the ordinary interests of the community.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 21.—The various sub-committees appointed to make the necessary arrangements for the proper celebration of the obsequies of the late president met this afternoon and again this evening. Exercises will be held at Mechanics' pavilion. Supervisor Chas. [illegible] Boyley was chosen president, with a long list of vice presidents. [illegible] H. Knight will deliver the oration. Rev. A. [illegible] Bonte, secretary of the board of regents of the state university, will offer prayer. The Fabbri Opera Troupe will sing the funeral dirge. Besides this there will be anthems by the Masonic quartette. The committee is overwhelmed with offers of service and applications for places in the line. Among the organizations that will turn out are the Masons, Odd Fellows, Knights of Pythias, Knights of Young Templars, members of the Scottish Rite, Chosen Friends, Ancient Order of Hibernians and a number of Irish societies, numerous benevolent associations of various nationalities, and fathers, professors and pupils of St. Ignatius college. In fact, there is scarcely an organization of any kind in the city that will not be represented. The militia, regular and national guard, officers and crews of American and foreign vessels of war, consuls and other officials, and [illegible] people will be accorded places in the column. Undoubtedly, citizens at large will swell the ranks high, up in the thousands. Delegations will also be present from neighboring cities. [illegible] church and engine bells will be tolled, and the gong of the Merchants' exchange and church bells will add to the clamor. Besides the bands which have been engaged in the city, there will be others from Oakland, if their services can be procured. The catafalque will be 16 feet long, eight broad, and [illegible] high, and drawn by eight special black horses, attended by grooms. The finance committee report that the funds left in the hands of the 4th of July committee will probably suffice for the public expenditure to a great extent. The cost of the celebration will fall upon societies and individuals, but if more money is needed, it will be freely forthcoming. Altogether the display promises to exceed in extent and imposing solemnity anything before seen on the Pacific coast.

The Masonic Order will Participate.

SACRAMENTO, Sept. 21.—The grand master of F. & A. M. has issued a dispensation ordering the grand lodge to unite with the citizens of San Francisco in celebrating the funeral rites of the late president, and requesting subordinate lodges throughout the jurisdiction to participate in local funeral ceremonies.

SPECIAL DISPATCHES TO THE OREGONIAN.

LONDON, Sept. 21.—The flags of all American [illegible] legations throughout Europe [illegible] half mast.

The Telegraph says: Throughout the world the gloomy news will be received with [illegible] shock of profound sorrow. There was no one on whom envy or hatred had less cause to [illegible] yet Pres. Garfield has [illegible] of the earth. America and Europe are thinking of the one supreme calamity which has reft the nation of a noble chief, whose principles, his unselfishness and breadth of intellectual cultivation, gave promise of a [illegible] of fruitful and invaluable acts of [illegible] power [illegible] policy. America has lost her great citizen [illegible] a fine example of humanity, but while the world [illegible] this upright and high hearted president passed away in a sure and certain reliance upon the love of heaven, we may venture to say [illegible] America also gains. She has gained [illegible] knowledge of that deep sympathy which England [illegible] feels for her fortunes.

An English Testimonial.

LONDON, Sept. 20.—The News says: After a long and terrible illness, the slightest vicissitudes of which have been watched with interest and discussed with sympathy by two continents, the president of the United States has died of his wound. In this melancholy crisis all Englishmen will feel for their kinsmen beyond the Atlantic. They will comprehend better than other nations in which government is less fully developed how great an irreparable is the loss of one whom [illegible] but a few short months ago elected to be chief magistrate of the American republic before [illegible] time to do more than show that he has in him the promise of a real statesman and genuine leader. He has been numbered with the many illustrious men who have preceded him. Apart altogether from political, and even from national interests, this terrible catastrophe cannot but appeal to the common feelings of humanity.

The London "Times" on the Situation.

The Times says the death of President Garfield is regarded as hardly less than a national calamity in all ranks from queen to peasant. There is a most heartfelt sympathy for the bereaved widow and the injured nation. The career of President Garfield was of a kind which appeals to the best feelings and most cherished traditions of our people. The early poverty, manful independence, have won attachments and the integrity of character had all caused his career to be watched as that of a man of exceptional powers and brilliant promise, and he was regarded as standing out very distinctly from among the majority of politicians. Even among Russian nihilists, Guiteau's crime will excite nothing but loathing and execration. There is perhaps less reason for [illegible] political consequences from the sudden transfer of power to a vice president in the present instance than on any former occasion. It is clear that Vice-President Arthur, who now assumes supreme authority will be restrained by obligations which public opinion will not allow him, if he desired it, to ignore. Gen. Garfield's high and admirable qualities are lost to his country and us. It may be we will not soon be gratified by the sight of a typical American at the White House. The short administration, however will not be barren of important political consequences, if it has put an end to the invasion of executive power by the senate, and if it should probably be a serious consideration of the existing constitutional system, so far as the relations of the vice presidency to the presidency are concerned.

In Haste to tender Sympathy.

LONDON, Sept. 20.—The British minister of foreign secretary and British ambassador were among the first at the American legation.

London Stock Exchange will Close.

LONDON, Sept. 21.—The stock exchange voted to adjourn Saturday, or any day, the New York stock exchange [illegible] designate, having the deepest sympathy with the loss sustained by the American people in the death of the president, and with a desire to show a special mark of respect. The New York exchange being notified of this, sent a hearty acknowledgment, recognizing the friendly and fraternal feeling.

Minister Lowell Calls a Meeting.

Minister Lowell has called a meeting of Americans on Saturday afternoon to express their grief and condolence. The whole diplomatic corps left cards with the legation.

German Opinion.

BERLIN, Sept. 20.—The National Zeitung says: The whole civilized world have hoped most sincerely for the recovery of President Garfield. The innocent victim has been at times [illegible] by [illegible]. Corruption [illegible] the American people of the necessity of moral regeneration.

A Martyr to his Endeavors.

NEW YORK, Sept. 20.—The Post says: President Garfield is a martyr to his endeavors to resist corruption. The crime against him has awakened the consciousness that it is the duty of the community to struggle against unbridled self-seeking of individuals.

Austrian Newspaper Comments.

VIENNA, Sept. 20.—The Allgemeine Zeitung describes the death of President Garfield as a heavy blow to America, but says what is worse is the fact that Arthur succeeds him.

The Deutsche Zeitung says the name of Garfield will hold an honorable place on the immortal roll of presidents of the United States.

Paris falls in Line.

PARIS, Sept. 20.—Galignani's Messenger, which prints the announcement of the death, surrounded by a mourning border and has an elegant tribute to Gen. Garfield's virtues, evidently from the pen of an American.

President Grevy has telegraphed a message of condolence.

Le Paris says: As a supreme homage to his noble victim, all people ought henceforth to ignore the name of the murderer.

La France says: The widow may be sure her name will be inscribed in history beside her husband's.

French Demonstrations.

PARIS, Sept. 21.—The American flag draped with crape, appears on the Grand hotel. All the newspapers eulogize President Garfield and express profound regret at his death. They recall the fact that he was the architect of his own fortune and extol his simple mode of life and wife's courage.

The Temps, the representative of a wide class of moderate republicans, says: His name has been rendered imperishable by state during the few months he possessed power. He began his [illegible] rity, surrounded [illegible] hopes, he was elected to the presidency as a party man, but as soon as he [illegible] down he became respected as the representative of the entire nation. This is an honor both to him and the country. We hope President Arthur will reduce party spirit to silence that he will be president of the republic, not of a section of the republican party.

Italy swells the Sympathetic Chorus.

ROME, Sept. 20.—King Humbert telegraphed the United States the condolence of himself and queen. The foreign minister sent a similar telegram in the name of the government and nation.

The Czar will send a Message of Sympathy.

ST. PETERSBURG, Sept. 20.—The death of President Garfield inspires unfeigned sorrow here. The czar will send a message of sympathy.

Excites Profound Regret.

BOMBAY, Sept. 20.—The death of President Garfield excites profound regret.

A Parisian Prophecy.

PARIS, Sept. 20.—The Soir anticipates that the regime of nepotism and corruption which flourished under Grant will once more flourish under Arthur.

Public Meeting at Berlin.

BERLIN, Sept. 21.—Many Americans called at the embassy to-day to express their sympathy at the death of President Garfield. A public meeting will be held soon.

A Touching Reference.

ROME, Sept. 21.—The grand master of Italian Free Masons refers touchingly to President Garfield's death.

CANADA.

A Feeling Allusion.

MONTREAL, Sept. 20.—At the opening of the dominion exhibition to-day, the governor made a feeling allusion to the death of the president.

A New Road from Ogden to the Missouri.

NEW YORK, Sept. 20.—C. P. Huntington, of the Central Pacific, said yesterday that the officers of the road believed that the Union Pacific was encroaching on their rights west of Ogden, and they intended to build an independent road from Ogden to the Missouri river. A surveying party had found a road from Pacific Springs all the way to the river, a distance of 740 miles. It was through an open and sparsely settled country about 100 miles north of the Union Pacific railway in an air line. The road from Ogden to Pacific Springs, a distance of 100 miles west, was not so good, but could be made available. About two months ago 60,000 tons of steel rails had been ordered from England, to be shipped by March 1st, and they were expected in San Francisco in July. Huntington said that if the Union Pacific continued to build its road to connect with Oregon, the Central Pacific would certainly make an east connection with the Missouri river. Otherwise the project would be abandoned. The organization of a company to build the road would be effected in 24 hours, and the rails would be ready to begin work with at once.

Another Insane Murderer.

THE AUTOPSY.

Official Report of the [illegible] Disclose Marvelous Strength of the President's Constitution.

SPECIAL DISPATCHES TO THE OREGONIAN.

ELBERON, N. J., Sept. 2[illegible].—The following official bulletin was prepared last night by the surgeons who have been in attendance on the late president: By previous arrangement, a post mortem examination of the body of President Garfield was made this afternoon in the presence and with the assistance of Drs. Hamilton, Agnew, Bliss, Barnes, Woodward, Reyburn, Andrew H. Smith of Elberon, and Acting Assistant Surgeon D. S. Lamb of the army medical museum at Washington. The operation was performed by Dr. Lamb. It was found that the ball, after fracturing the right, eleventh rib, had passed through the spinal column in front of the spinal cord, fracturing the body of the first lumbar vertebra, driving a number of small fragments of bone into the adjacent soft parts, and lodging just below the pancreas, about two inches and a half to the left of the spine and behind the peritoneum, where it had become completely encysted. The immediate cause of death was secondary hemorrhage from one of the mesenteric arteries adjoining the track of the ball, the blood rupturing the peritoneum and nearly a pint escaping into the abdominal cavity. This hemorrhage is believed to have been the cause of the severe pain in the lower part of the chest, complained of just before death. An abscess cavity six inches by four, in dimensions was found in the vicinity of the gall bladder, between the liver and the transverse colon, which were strongly inter-adherent. It did not involve the substance of the liver and no communication was found between it and the wound. A long suppurating channel extended from the external wound between the loin muscles and the right kidney, almost to the right groin. This channel is now known to be due to the burrowing of pus from the wound. It was supposed during life to have been the track of the ball. On examination of the organs of the chest evidences of severe bronchitis were found on both sides, with broncho pneumonia of the lower portions of the right lung, and though to a much less extent of the left. The lungs contained no abscesses and the heart no clots. The liver was enlarged and fatty, but free from abscesses, nor were any found in any other organ except the left kidney, which contained, near its surface, small abscesses about one-third of an inch in diameter. In reviewing the history of the case in connection with the autopsy, it is quite evident that the different suppurating surfaces, and especially the fractured spongy tissue of the vertebrae furnish a sufficient explanation of the septic condition which existed.

A Long Operation.

The autopsy of the president's body, commenced about [illegible] o'clock and was not concluded until nearly [illegible]. Large crowds of persons assembled at Elberon to hear the result. It is stated that the autopsy had been very tedious, and the time occupied in searching for the ball alone was nearly three quarters of an hour. Mrs. Garfield was feeling much relieved after the autopsy, inasmuch as it resulted in establishing the fact that the patient's death was inevitable. The point of the ball was somewhat blunt, but in a battered condition caused by the force with which it struck the ribs, while in other respects its original shape was not altered. Bliss took charge of the bullet and sealed it for preservation until the courts should require its production.

Permission Granted to Remove the Body.

The state of New Jersey has issued a permit for the removal of the body of President Garfield.

DEATH OF THE PRESIDENT.

Proclamation of the Governor of Oregon.

STATE OF OREGON,
EXECUTIVE OFFICE,
SALEM, SEPTEMBER, 1881.

Our republic, the United States, has suffered a sad bereavement, in that our revered president, James A. Garfield, who but recently was chosen [illegible] chief magistrate by the votes of a free and independent people, is no more.

On the 2d day of July last in the full vigor of his manhood and career of his usefulness, while in the discharge of the unblemished conduct of the American people, under the protection of its laws and institutions, the only [illegible] consistent with liberty, and relying solely upon such protection, he was wantonly and cruelly assaulted by an assassin, and after a prolonged and painful struggle, his gallant spirit has succumbed to the fatal wound then received and taken its departure. On the 19th day of September 1881, at [illegible], Elberon, in the State of New Jersey, at the hour of 10:35 P. M., his excellency the president expired. This shocking occurrence has occasioned widespread grief, has agonized the great human heart of our country, and has made vacant the highest station in our commonwealth. In view of this deep and extended affliction it is meet that funeral rites be observed throughout the various states of our Union as a last solemn tribute to our departed fellow citizen, our late honored and illustrious statesman.

WHEREAS, Tuesday the 2[illegible]th inst. has been designated for holding memorial services suitable and appropriate to the melancholy occasion, now therefore,

I, W. W. Thayer, governor of the state of Oregon, do hereby most earnestly recommend that upon that day all secular business be suspended in order that a stricken people may unitedly indulge in mourning the untimely loss of their beloved and esteemed chief executive, rehearse his virtues and excellence and offer up their solemn invocations to the God of nations for the preservation and endurance of their form of government.

In testimony whereof I have hereunto set my hand and caused the seal of the state to be affixed the day and year above written.

W. W. THAYER,
Governor of Oregon.

By the governor:
R. P. EARHART, Secretary of State.

GENERAL SHERMAN ON GUITEAU.

A Sensible and Timely Letter on the Subject of Mob Violence.

SPECIAL TO THE OREGONIAN.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 21.—The following letter from Gen. Sherman in the interest of law and order, dealing with the assassin Guiteau, will [illegible] the Republican:

W. C. Gorham, National Republican:—Dear Sir: You and I have been much annoyed by the [illegible] in California [illegible] the rule, and [illegible] I believe in the law of the land [illegible] defense under the law [illegible] that the [illegible] would be the right thing, and we believe that the [illegible] thing [illegible] the physicians [illegible] patient. I have occasionally heard the same argument in the streets. Some [illegible] have been enunciated, and heaven forbid [illegible] the very agonies of death at Long Branch [illegible] coward, miserable wretch Guiteau [illegible] public [illegible] and I should, in our respective spheres, make a [illegible] use of our past experience. [illegible] of [illegible] in higher esteem the noble qualities [illegible] Garfield than Arthur [illegible] Chickamauga [illegible] of the [illegible] but was stay at by the [illegible] [illegible] at noon and I shall remain [illegible] his post of duty until the last moment of [illegible] Chickamauga, 18 years ago, Garfield was [illegible] staff to Gen. Rosecrans, whose [illegible] by a vehement charge. [illegible] was carried along in the broken masses [illegible] Chickamauga, when he begged for this privilege of returning to join Gen. George H. Thomas [illegible] with his left wing. Gen. Rosecrans gave [illegible] permission, and he did return, [illegible] joining Gen. Thomas and [illegible] a [illegible] order to Chattanooga. That was General Garfield's last fight, in which he took special pride, and I know he intended to [illegible] the celebration of the survivors of Chickamauga next Wednesday [illegible]. It is now ordered otherwise, [illegible] by the sea shore on his death bed from the wound inflicted by the miserable wretch Guiteau [illegible] this man Guiteau I ask no soldier, no citizen, to [illegible] one particle of sympathy. On the contrary [illegible] make my will the law, shooting or hanging would be too good for him. But I do ask every soldier and citizen to remember, that we profess to be a loyal nation on the earth, to [illegible] the sacred [illegible] of the law. There is no merit in obeying a reasonable law, but there is glory at the obeying an un[illegible] thing gracefully to an oppressive one.

THURSDAY MORNING, SEPT. 22, 1881.

FUTURE POLITICS.

The universal sorrow caused by the death of the president obliterates for the time all party feeling. Even before this calamity overtook the country there was a marked decline of partisan animosity. Perhaps there never has occurred since the formation of our government a period so devoid of difference of opinion on main political principles. The use of traditional names, the prejudice of historical connection and the instinct of party habit are about the only foundations upon which distinctions between the republican and democratic parties now exist.

The great questions that rent the people asunder into two violent parties are buried in the depths. The earthquake has subsided, the volcano has long since ceased to send forth fire and burning lava, and nothing remains to indicate the great and desolating convulsion but the scoria strewed about, whose disintegration produces corn, oil and wine, and the lazy smoke that fitfully is emitted from the crater, proclaiming not only the sleep but life of the pacified giant. Therefore, the leaders of the two parties have been sorely distressed for "living issues," by agitating which the domestic feud may be sustained and the integrity of each offensive organization kept up. The tariff has been tried, but it is a free horse that has been ridden by both parties; a mild edition of state rights has been issued, but the doctors on both sides are equally orthodox; finance and the currency have been lugged into court but without avail. The two parties are on both sides of every "issue" presented. When the republican pilots steered for civil reform the democratic fleet followed the signal; when the democrats have raised the banner of anti-monopoly the republicans flocked to it, claiming it as their own flag. There is little now between the parties except the strife for place, for patronage for spoils. That never ends.

The deepest thought of America is now engaged in contriving a method for the elimination of this disastrous feature from our political system. The fight over this point will probably constitute the material of the next national struggle. According to the present lights we do not see how the case can drift into a debate between existing parties. As on financial matters there will be a wide splitting up of party. Disinterested and independent citizens, of both parties, are resolved to push for reformation of our system in this most important particular. The sacrifice of the life of a president, for which the nation is mourning to-day, is directly traceable to evils which must be checked, or they will destroy the country. Though there is political quiet now, the chances are for a battle royal in the republican party on this question. The battle would be in the democratic party were that party in possession of the government. Here unquestionably, on this issue of rescuing the civil service of the government from the pit of degradation into which it has fallen, is the central point of our politics for five years to come. The contest is not to be an easy one. The robber and booty system is supported by too powerful an interest to allow assurance of an easy victory over it. But the victory will be gained, and the men and parties that obstruct it will be swept out of the way as leaves before the storm. The highest patriotism now consists in getting on the right side of this question. Begin by marking the professional politician and place-hunter, and strike at him and his work wherever and whenever either can be seen. He is the pest of the country, he should be regarded with detestation, and the hand of every man should be against him.

APPOINTMENTS FOR CAUSE.

The address on the administration of the civil service, delivered by George William Curtis before the social science association at Saratoga early in the present month contains points which it would pay the "practical politicians" to read and consider. As the Chicago Tribune puts it, they would find the light breaking in all round before they got half through the paper. Mr. Curtis denies that he or any of the reformers who think with him rest the case on the principle of "removal for cause" only. That would mean removal only on trial, or by some process of informal impeachment. Yet it would be difficult to convict any minor official of laziness, or inefficiency, or a bad temper, or an unruly spirit. Removal should be within the power of the responsible officer; that is to say, every head of a department or a bureau, every postmaster or collector, or chief of an office of any kind who has subordinates for whose conduct he is responsible, should have the power of removing them summarily. But the true principle is appointment for cause only; and Mr. Curtis justly insists that political activity, partisan service or devoted adherence to the fortunes of a boss politician should not be a legitimate cause. Here is the key to the whole subject. If appointments are properly made there need be no concern about removals. The latter will be made naturally when they are needed, and not unless they are needed. The question of competitive examinations would be one of minor importance if absolute impartiality in making appointments could be assured without them. Business men do not examine competitively applicants for positions at their disposal; but they have personal knowledge of the character and capacity of the candidates, or test them in the lowest places before giving them posts of responsibility. The government does not have the same knowledge. Moreover, the applicant in private life has no sort of claim upon the merchant, and cannot allege the shadow of a "right" to employment. But every citizen has the same rights, other things being equal, before the government. The decision between several candidates for office can only be made fairly by ascertaining the qualifications of each. This is the justification of competitive examinations. Mr. Curtis notes a cheering progress in the cause of civil service reform, which has made gratifying headway, especially since the president was shot by a spoils hunter.

EUROPE'S WHEAT HARVEST.

From the annual report on the harvest of the world, just published in France by M. Etienne, we got a fair idea of this year's wheat crop in the various countries of Europe. The yield in France is not so good as it was last year. Of ninety departments returned it is reported very good in three, good in thirty, fairly good in twenty-three, medium in twenty-four and bad in ten. In Austro-Hungary the crop is good and above the average. In Italy it is medium and inferior to that of last year, and the same is true of the Turkish provinces on the Danube. In Germany, taking one hundred as a representative of the average harvest, the crop of this year is shown to about eighty. In Switzerland the yield was greatly reduced by extreme heat and drouth, but the quality of the grain is good. The Belgian crop is far below the average, while the Spanish is bad. In Holland the yield is up to the average, and the quality good. The British crop is returned by M. Etienne as ten per cent below the average, and this report was made before the recent damaging rains. From three hundred and fifty-four advices received as to the harvest in Great Britain twenty-three show an over-average, one hundred and fifty-nine an average, and one hundred and seventy-one an under-average. On the whole the year has been a poor one throughout most of Europe, and the general wheat crop is a good deal below the average. It is not often that failure to such extent as that of the present year is coincident in the two hemispheres. Our own crop, taking the country over, is fully twenty-five per cent. below that of last year. Fair freights would give us a great return for the wheat crop of the Pacific coast this year.

The Washington Star argues well that burglary should be made a capital offense, for the reason that when a burglar enters a house, particularly at night, for the purpose of robbery, murder is part of his errand if necessary to accomplish the object of his visit, or to escape capture or identification. And it is also understood by the people that the only way to stop the crime is to carry the penalty for its commission up to the hanging point, and then enforce it in every instance. Meantime, until the laws are changed, a sentiment has grown up to the effect that householders are justified in killing any person found in their houses without invitation, and particularly in the night time; and it would be very hard, if not impossible, to find a jury who would punish a man for shooting a person discovered prowling about his premises under almost any circumstances. No burglar ever enters a dwelling house or other place in which any person is sleeping during the night season except with murderous intent. There is no good reason, therefore, why the crime should not be made capital when the building entered is inhabited.

After all the surgeons were mistaken as to the course of the ball which wounded the president. The opening, leading downwards, which was supposed to be its track, and which the instruments followed, to the depth of twelve or thirteen inches, is ascertained to have been a canal formed by the "burrowing of pus" from the wound. The ball took nearly a transverse direction across the body, seriously injuring the spinal column. This accounts for many of the sensations experienced by the patient for a considerable time after he was shot, particularly in the legs and feet. Particles of bone from the fractured vertebra, driven into the surrounding parts, kept up the irritation and made the healing process impossible. These facts, the surgeons say, and no doubt with perfect correctness, account for the long prevalence of septic conditions. It now appears that recovery was from the first practically out of the question. The bullet, being perfectly encysted, was itself giving no trouble.

At Long Branch, before he was shot, the president happened to say: "Now, is it not strange, and is it not a striking commentary on the protection and security afforded by free institutions, that the president of the United States can go about in this way, practically unattended and without a body guard, and without the paraphernalia that encompasses other rulers? I am as secure traveling this way as any other citizen of this country."

A Cleveland paper publishes a letter which Gen Garfield wrote to a friend in that city about a week after his election to the presidency, in which he said: "I believe all my friends are more gratified in the personal part of my triumph than I am, and although I am proud of the noble support I have received, and the vindication it gives me against my assailants, yet there is a tone of sadness running through this triumph that I can hardly explain."

The Chicago Times says of the "Blaine, Secretary," style of signature: "The simple and sufficient explanation is that army officers are required by regulations to use this short form, and that in cable correspondence the secretary of state and the ministers employ it to save the expense of telegraph tolls."

CITIZENS' MEETING.

A meeting of the citizens of Portland and [illegible] [illegible] court house on Thursday evening at 7 o'clock, to take such measures as they may deem appropriate to properly observe the day of the funeral of our late honored chief magistrate. The citizens of East Portland are invited to attend the meeting.

D. P. THOMPSON, Mayor.

[illegible] Injured.—A little 11-year-old son of [illegible] H. West of East Portland, met with a very [illegible] accident Tuesday evening. The lad has a little pony that he has been in the habit of [illegible] and riding at his pleasure. Tuesday afternoon he had a halter on the pony and was playing with it in a small lot adjoining the family residence, [illegible] Sixteenth street. Late in the evening a member of the family went out into the yard, and was horrified to find the child senseless and apparently dead upon the ground, with the blood flowing from a frightful gash in the forehead. A physician was immediately sent for, who upon examination found the skull broken just over the [illegible], the fracture extending almost across to [illegible] eye, and they found it necessary to remove a small piece of the skull bone from near the center of the forehead. It is supposed that the horse [illegible] the boy with its fore foot, and that the cut [illegible] bone fracture was made by the cork on the horse's shoe.

Sentences Commuted.—The governor has recently [illegible] the following commutations of sentences of [illegible] in the Oregon state penitentiary: George [illegible] sent from Umatilla county for five years from [illegible], for the crime of larceny; reason assigned, for clemency, extra services in burning brick [illegible] to prevent convicts escaping. John [illegible] sent from Clatsop county for three years from [illegible] 1881, for the crime of burglary; commutation [illegible] signed by a large number of citizens of Clatsop county, recommendation of [illegible] attorney and upon the further ground of [illegible] health. Hong Chung, sent from Yamhill [illegible] for the time of one year from Oct. 11, 1880; [illegible] conduct and term of sentence being [illegible]. Martin Parsons, sent from Washington [illegible] for the term of three years from [illegible], for the crime of larceny; commutation [illegible] petition of citizens of Washington [illegible] youth of said Parsons.

[illegible].—Mr. William Grooms, an old and [illegible] citizen of Portland, met with a very [illegible] while engaged at the steam[illegible] some old planking overboard. [illegible] Grooms threw had a spike project[illegible] caught him and threw him on [illegible] injuring his leg and hip. THE POWERS CASE.

Continuance of the Testimony in Behalf of the Prosecution.

WEDNESDAY [illegible] SESSION.

Court convened at 9 A. M. [illegible] yesterday.

W. M. [illegible].

Was in the billiard room of the Esmond Hotel on the evening of July 4th; heard the noise of the trouble between Cornelius and Powers, and went out at the same time as Dr. Wheeler; saw the two men lying on the street; heard Cornelius say, "I'm shot all to pieces."

By Mr. Williams—What else did Cornelius say while he was lying in the office of the Esmond House? Objected to by defendant's counsel, and argued at length; the argument against the question, of the admissibility of statements made by Cornelius after he received the mortal wound; counsel for the state contending that the statements were certainly admissible as res gestae or part of the transaction, or as made in the presence of the defendant, or as dying declarations. Argument of defendant's counsel was based upon the premises that the statements were made before [illegible] and excitement of the affray and did not come within the rule. The objection was sustained by the court.

Cross-examined—Heard firing while I was in the billiard room, two or three shots; left the room and went into the street; found a crowd around the men; other shots, two or three in number, were fired after I went in the street. Did not see the men fall, but saw them on the ground.

[illegible].

Am a [illegible]; was in Portland in the neighborhood of the Esmond hotel on the evening of the 4th of July. I was sitting in front of the hotel, about 8 feet from the door leading into the bar room, waiting until it should be time to go to the fireworks. I heard [illegible] opposite side of the street and imprecation, and looking up saw a large man and a small one, did not know the parties; the large man was striking the small one; he struck him three times, driving him back about three yards; the small man then fired a pistol twice or three times in rapid succession; the flashes of the weapon being from a stooping position or seemingly from a pistol having upward inclination; could not tell whether the small man was striking or not. The imprecation which I heard was "G— d— you, you I shoot me, will you?" or "you say you'll shoot me?" and was uttered by the large man. The small man said nothing. I saw no pistol in the hands of the large man. There were a number of shots fired—perhaps 13 or 14 altogether. Cornelius seemed to take effect on the small man, for he fell as if he were dead, and I thought he was dead; but he afterwards got up and renewed the fight with the same terrible fury. For the first two or three shots while the small man was lying the large man was striking. The small man fired right into the large one.

Cross-examined—The blows which the large man struck were powerful; I judge this from the fact that the man giving them was a powerful man, and he seemed to strike with all his force; the flash from the first shots was from a low position, as if the person firing was falling or stooping; they struggled some and afterward fell; the small man fell first, but recovered and advanced on his antagonist again, as if he intended to finish him. I would not say as to any intermission in the firing after it had once begun.

W. M. TOWNSEND.

Am county judge of Yamhill county, and reside at Lafayette; was near the scene of the difficulty between Cornelius and Powers on the evening of July 4th; was standing in the Esmond hotel when I saw Cornelius near the middle of the street toward the St. Charles; he was standing facing the northeast, his right hand by his side and his head turned to the left; stepped out on the sidewalk and then could see Powers standing on the sidewalk by the building opposite the Esmond; Cornelius said, "You G—d— Irish s— of a b—, you'll shoot me, will you?" he repeated the words, and having drawn his pistol, fired; Powers replied with a shot immediately and Cornelius followed almost instantly with a second shot, and Powers again fired; meantime they had been approaching each other, and then clinched, two more shots being fired by them, but would not say whether by Cornelius or Powers, or by each one after they got hold of each other; they struggled toward the edge of the sidewalk, where they both fell, Mr. Powers falling on top and rolling off. Another man came across from the Esmond hotel and asked Cornelius if he was shot. Cornelius answered, "Yes, I'm shot all to pieces." The man was above Cornelius, who was sitting on the edge of the sidewalk. The man then stepped two or three steps into the street so as to be out of range of Cornelius and fired at Powers, who was lying on the street, his head against the sidewalk.

Cross-examined.—When he fell Cornelius rose and sat on the edge of the sidewalk; Powers continuing to lie on the pavement; saw Powers first, just as Cornelius fired the first time, when he Cornelius was near the middle of the street; Powers shot almost instantly after Cornelius first fired. Powers had a pistol, and I might say was in the act of firing when I first saw him.

Re-direct—About the time Cornelius fired, in addition to what I have before stated, he used the words, "You've been following me all evening."

EDGAR E. COURSEN.

Am a musician; was at the Esmond on the evening of July 4th; saw two shots fired from the window; ran out on the street and by the time I got out both men were lying down; took the two pistols, one from Powers and think one from Cornelius; got the one from Powers with difficulty; he seemed to be the stronger of the two men, having very nearly his full strength. Cornelius seemed to be weaker; saw a policeman take a pistol from Charlie Cornelius; I gave the two pistols to a policeman soon after.

Cross-examined—When I took the pistol from Powers I did not notice that he was bleeding, but my hands were bloody shortly after; Charlie Cornelius shot Powers while the latter was lying on the ground; am not confident whether I got the second pistol from Cornelius, but probably did.

J. W. HORSEY.

Recalled—Defendant's counsel objected to this witness testifying, on the ground that he was a witness before the grand jury which found the indictment, but that his name was not endorsed thereon. The objection to the witness' testimony was sustained by the court.

Adjourned till 1:30 P. M.

Afternoon Session.

Court met pursuant to adjournment. The first witness called was

JOHN GARNOLD.

Am the coroner of Multnomah county; held the inquest over the body of Ben Cornelius.

[Witness here produced three pistols; he stated he had obtained two of the weapons from police officer Stephenson, and one from police headquarters; one of these pistols was a Smith & Wesson No. 51,836, the guard of which was broken off—five barreled; two of chambers empty, and three loaded; another pistol was No. 2600, five chambered, one barrel empty and four barrels loaded; the third pistol was No. 5919, every barrel of which was empty.]

Witness resumed—Two of these pistols were brought to me by Officer Stephenson—to my place of business [pistols were here carefully and thoroughly examined by the witness]; got the other pistol at police headquarters; know Capt. Sloan; am not certain whether or not I got the weapon from Capt. Sloan or Capt. Gritzmacher; these pistols have been in my possession since I first obtained them—since the inquest; they are in the same condition as when I first got them; was not present at the shooting, do not know anything about it; the guard was broken off the pistol when I first received it.

JAMES STEPHENSON.

Was police officer on the 4th of July; Powers was lying on the sidewalk when I first arrived at the scene of the shooting; Cornelius had already been taken into the hotel; I did not see anything of the shooting; received the two pistols [here pistols were produced] from Edgar E. Coursen; took the pistols down to the police headquarters and turned them both over to Capt. Sloan; did not examine the pistols closely; did not fool with them at all, but delivered them to Sloan at once; received them between 8 and 9 o'clock from Coursen, in front of the Esmond; afterwards delivered the two pistols to Coroner Garnold in response to a subpena; got the pistols from either Gritzmacher or Sloan; do not remember which one.

Cross-examination—Saw Powers lying on the sidewalk as I came past; do not know which of the pistols was used by Powers or Cornelius; did not see the shooting; there was a large crowd gathered about Powers as I came up.

JOHNSON FREEMAN.

Live in Washington county; was acquainted with Ben Cornelius during his lifetime; also know Jack Powers; was present at the [illegible] & Reed sale at Reedville; saw Powers at that sale; met Jack Powers; he was on horseback; he got off his horse; asked where Bob Walker was; he said "I see Ben Cornelius yonder, I came here for the purpose of bringing Ben Cornelius to law; I do not propose to take any advantage of him; my man is not here and I do not propose to say a word to him now. I am heeled." Powers then threw back his coat and exhibited two pistols; he did not say that he proposed to make Cornelius take something back; I told Powers that I did not want him to tell me anything about his troubles; Cornelius was in sight at the time the conversation took place; I was on foot at the time and Powers on his horse.

WILLIAM J. ROBINSON.

Live eight miles southwest of this city, in Washington county; knew Cornelius and also Powers; had a conversation with Powers at Dale's saloon about Cornelius, when we were in that place. Powers told me something about his trouble with Cornelius; something what he understood Cornelius had said about him; he told me Cornelius was at the Occidental hotel, and he wanted me to go down to that place with him and he would satisfy me that he was right; he said he knew that Cornelius had the money, but he had the "sand"; he said so far as that was concerned he could get away with the whole "G—d— pack or tribe" of them; told him he had better not talk about the trouble; that there were a good many friends on both sides; that if they did not stop talking about their troubles, there would be difficulty; my object in going into Dale's saloon at that time was to keep the men separated; did not want to see them meet; knew that Cornelius was at the Occidental hotel; this conversation took place some time before the Reedville sale, and was after the divorce had been granted Mrs. Powers and after the division of property had been made; it was after Pat Powers had said that he had settled the question about the property.

Cross-examination—He said Cornelius had met him on the street and said that he (Powers) had told something about his family; that he (Powers) told Cornelius if he would go to certain persons he mentioned he could prove what he had stated; that Cornelius had "backed down" and did not go; he wanted me to go to the Occidental with him and he would prove what he said; I advised Powers to let the matter rest; that Cornelius had lots of friends, and that many of Cornelius' friends were his friends, [illegible] if he kept on talking it would only involve them both in serious trouble; Powers did not say what Cornelius had accused him of saying about the family.

W. W. NOLAN.

Live at Forest Grove; am a saddler by trade; knew Cornelius, also Powers; met Powers in Hillsboro—perhaps in May; we met in Laughlin's stable. He asked me how the Cornelius family were all getting along in Forest Grove; asked me how his children were; told him they were all well; he said he was as [illegible]; that his home was gone, his children were gone and all were gone; said he had a settlement [illegible] [illegible] the Cornelius family and [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] said he [illegible] not care about living [illegible] was [illegible] ing to live for; saw Powers on [illegible] on the evening of that day [illegible] it was at the St. Charles; he asked if the children [illegible] the city; spoke about [illegible] again at [illegible] on [illegible] his family [illegible] Mrs. Dr. Murray [illegible] [illegible] would say [illegible] have been [illegible] were talking [illegible] Mrs. Powers and Cornelius [illegible] [illegible] the veranda of the Esmond [illegible] how often [illegible] met Powers [illegible] of times [illegible] Holton. He [illegible] the trouble had [illegible] menced; [illegible] was talking with the [illegible] the afternoon he asked [illegible] and I think Mr. Buchanan [illegible].

as, into the Esmond to take a drink; we went in and [illegible] a drink; we were going out and Powers stopped on the sidewalk in front of the Esmond to talk with Buchanan. I did not see Powers in the vicinity of the Esmond house again that evening; cannot say that he showed me a book, but I saw him take out a book and write something; think that Will Holton was present when he took out the book; I think some other person was also present.

To the questions of "what was in that book?" "what kind of a book was it?" "what did he write in the book?" objections were raised by counsel for defense, argued at length, and objections sustained.

I saw Powers with a pistol at Hillsboro at the time I had the conversation with him; he said he was "heeled" [illegible] always at the time he said; he was broken up; he remarked he was prepared; and pulled back his coat tail and exhibited the weapon; he asked him at Hillsboro if he would have any objections to his seeing his children; I said I supposed he would not; I told him on the 3d of July in this city that he [illegible] told him that he had no objections to Powers coming and seeing his children, but he did not want him to be hanging around the [illegible].

Cross-examination—He seemed to be grieved over his loss of home, family, etc.; saw Powers at Hillsboro about noon on the day we had the conversation; he said "Jack Powers don't amount to anything, he is gone," and added that "revenge is sweet"; I myself [illegible] told the matters up, that his wife had obtained a divorce and [illegible] was to say nothing about his trouble; we were at the Esmond several times during the 3d of July; we separated about 9 o'clock on the evening of the 3d.

Re-direct—Saw Powers several times on the 4th; did not have any conversation with him at Cornelius; did not hear Powers say anything about Cornelius that day; Powers and Cornelius met at the Esmond on the evening of July 3, but they did not speak or have any conversation at the time at all; Powers at the moment was engaged in conversation with Mr. Buchanan.

OLIVER [illegible].

Reside at Forest Grove; have resided there about [illegible] years; am a clerk in a store; knew both Cornelius and Powers; last spring, think it was on the 4th of May, he started in and related to me all his family troubles; said that on the 4th of July 1850 there was a funeral, that on the 4th of March 1881 there was a wedding, and on the 4th of July 1881 he would have a new lease of life; said he had lost everything, had been divorced from his wife, had lost his home and children and was a ruined, broken man, but he said he would settle the trouble and die like a brave man; that he "carried steel"; that he belonged to the Irish land league and that organization would take up the trouble and see him through with it; met him in Portland on the 4th of July, when he told me all his family troubles again; said the trouble had just commenced; they would hear from him; they had got hold of the wrong person, etc.; he showed me a book in which were written something concerning the Cornelius family. I remarked jocularly that I would go and tell Cornelius, when he said "You can go and tell him if you want to, I don't care." I saw Powers and Cornelius meet at the Esmond—or rather pass each other; Powers and myself were coming out of the Esmond and Cornelius coming in; both men met right at the door, passing so close to each other that their shoulders rubbed together; they stopped, turned around and gave each other a look and passed on; Powers came out on the sidewalk in front of the Esmond, and looking back, said "I want none of that," and walked away; I came into this city on July 2d; he showed me the book mentioned in the morning.

Cross-examination—Powers said I could tell Cornelius what he had said if I wanted to; he told at the Bureau saloon about his wedding, funeral, etc.; spoke about the land league several times; said he was going to bring this business to an end, and then go back to a court in Ireland; said he carried the steel and went prepared; his principal topic of conversation was his family troubles by "business" he meant his family difficulties; this conversation was in May or June—after the divorce had been granted; I understood the suit he spoke of was in connection with his family; said that the suit had been brought by Mrs. Dr. Murray for $40.

JOS. SLOAN

was called, and after examining the pistols brought into court by Coroner Garnold, identified them as being the ones delivered to him on the 4th of July by Officers Stephenson and Branch.

BEN BRANCH.

Am a police officer; reached the scene of the shooting just as they were carrying Cornelius into the Esmond; took the small pistol from Charles Cornelius and handed it over to the chief of police. [Witness examined the weapon and identified it.]

R. C. [illegible].

Knew Cornelius; do not know Powers, but have seen him; stop at the Esmond when I am in Portland; was in the city last January at the Esmond; saw the two men quarreling; heard Powers say I'll do that, or give that, and that is a d—d sight more that you'll do, with all your family and your money; think Powers had been drinking at the time; heard a woman's voice say, "why, annoy my father about it, why not let my father alone;" heard Powers say, "I'll have my say, I'll put a hole through him;" two ladies and a little girl were at the head of the stairs at the time of the quarrel, I met Powers on the stairs coming down.

Witness here proceeded to detail the circumstances of the shooting substantially as has been given by other witnesses.

On the night I heard the men quarrel the clerk said to Powers, "what is all this about, I want no trouble in the house;" Powers turned around and said "who in the h—l are you and what do you want?" Cornelius said to the clerk, "let him alone;" this conversation took place on the stairs; clerk came back to the hotel office and the two men went on up the stairs.

The court took a recess until quarter past 7 o'clock.

Evening Session.

Court convened at 7:15 P. M.

JAMES BOWIE.

Was acquainted with Cornelius and am acquainted with Powers; had a conversation with Powers in Kerron & McBeth's store in May last; he made some conversation about family troubles and difficulties at Beaverton or Reedville; he said he was afraid he or Ben would have to die before it was settled, or would have to die over it.

EUGENE HUGHES.

Live at Forest Grove; had a conversation with Powers, in reference to the Cornelius family, the latter part of last winter; it referred principally to the children and wife of Ben Cornelius.

CHARLES CORSE.

Live six miles from Forest Grove; had a conversation in Portland with Powers about the 1st of June; met him at the Occidental; he asked me if I had heard of his trouble; I asked him what trouble, and he said with the Cornelius family, and that he would like to shoot one or two people in Washington county.

DR. J. N. ADAMS.

Am a chiropodist; saw Cornelius at the Esmond between 12 and 1 o'clock of July 4th in room No. 7; in the evening, walking toward the Esmond, I saw two men clinched; they were shooting and fell toward me; Cornelius fell first and Powers on top and rolled off. Cornelius fell again at sidewalk; some man came and cried out, "Give way! or some of you will get shot;" the crowd gave way and the man having a pistol in his hand fired at Powers, who afterwards got up and attempted to get at Cornelius again; Cornelius was taken into the office of the Esmond; all I heard him say in reference to his condition was, "My God! I'm shot all to pieces. I'm going to die. Give me some morphine and let me die easy."

MISS TILLIE CORNELIUS.

Am a daughter of Ben Cornelius, and was a sister-in-law of John Powers; lived with him a block or [illegible]; Powers after he married my sister; have heard Powers threaten my father; first heard him in September 1880; he came, and meeting my sister, held up two revolvers and said, "Where is Ben? I mean to kill him to-night;" being told my father was not at home, he went home; another time, shortly afterwards, I heard him say, "Old Ben had better not meddle with my family affairs, or he will bite the dust;" this was a week or so after the first threat was made; during the Mechanics' Fair my sister and I had rooms at the Esmond hotel. Powers came there and I told him not to go to her room; the physician attending my sister, Mrs. Dr. Murray, had told me not to let him go to her room; he said "My funeral was on the 4th of July, 1880, and now I am bought; some good man will have to pay for this. I will give you a chance to go to a funeral on the 4th of next July;" the same evening he made as if he would shoot me, but putting his hand back, said, "No, I will not hurt you, but Ben has got to die; I want you to understand Till Cornelius, Ben has got to die;" my sister came home afterwards, and Powers came to the house to see her, and I remarked that "I did not see why people came where they were not wanted;" as he went out, he said, "Some good man will have to bite the dust for this;" on the evening before the 4th of July Powers, my father and my sister were standing in the hall of the Esmond hotel; I heard my sister say, "I know the reason you want to kill my father; because he is my father;" Powers replied, "You need not be so smart because you have a father now; it's no sign you'll have one long; saw Powers on the afternoon of the 3d showing a book to Wallace Nolan, on the sidewalk opposite the Esmond; my father did not go out of the hotel after we had our dinner at 6 P. M. on the 3d, until next morning; next day I saw Powers every time I went on the street; saw him in front of the Esmond several times that day; my sister and I were gone to Dr. Chapman's when the shooting occurred; my father was lying in the office of the hotel when we got back. I was in the room when Dr. Saylor asked my father if he realized his condition; my father said yes; the doctor said to him how this happened; my father said he met Jack on the street and opening his coat said, "Jack, you were going to shoot me. Do it now." I did not think he would do it, I didn't think he would kill me, but thought he would kill Charley. He said he would kill us both.

Cross-examined—Powers did not stay at his house except a few nights since he and my sister were divorced. My father was in the Esmond most of the day on the 4th; he was in the hotel when we went to Dr. Chapman's; my father had no objection to Powers coming to the house to see his children; Powers' children are two girls aged 11 and 9 years, respectively.

MISS EVA ROBBINS.

"In September last Powers came to Cornelius' house where I was working, and Mrs. Powers went to the door to meet him. He asked her what [illegible] "old Jim," holding up two pistols in his wife's face. [Witness related the occurrence substantially as given in the testimony of Miss Tillie Cornelius.]

MRS. RACHEL CORNELIUS.

Am the widow of Benjamin Cornelius; have lived in Oregon, Washington county, since 1845; have heard Powers make a threat against my husband; last fall Powers came to our house and I went up to the room where Sarah (Mrs. Powers) was lying on the bed sick; I followed him and found Sarah had a hard chill; I said to him he ought not to come to the house when he saw it made Sarah worse; I then said to him that she didn't see why he should come where he was not welcome; he put his hand back in his pocket and said, "Tell Cornelius to look out;" my husband hearing this came to the door and called Powers to come down stairs; as Powers went out he said, "Some good man will bite the dust for meddling with my family affairs." [Witness testified to seeing Powers on the street and about the Esmond hotel on the 3d and 4th of July and the declarations concerning the affray made in the presence of Dr. Saylor substantially as her daughter Miss Tillie Cornelius.]

[illegible].

Was called for the defense by consent. Was acquainted with Ben Cornelius and defendant Powers; had a conversation with Cornelius about the trouble with Powers; it was [illegible] commenced near the Occidental. A[illegible] [illegible] [illegible] threaten [illegible] by deceased; the [illegible] and witness [illegible] [illegible] the trouble was settled [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] will come to the [illegible].

THE CITY COUNCIL.

Make Arrangements for Less Hoodlumism When the Steamers Land.

W. J. Kelly Rejected as Superintendent of Streets—An Ordinance to Extend the Fire Limits Introduced.

The New Rule Requiring Better Morals, Better Physique and Better Record for Policemen Adopted—Perry Baker Again—Routine Business, Etc.

The [illegible] gentlemen chosen by the people of Portland to manage matters pertaining to the city government, and the mayor, met in regular session in the council chamber last night. The customary officers were also in attendance.

MESSAGES FROM THE MAYOR.

MAYOR'S OFFICE, Sept. 19, 1881.

To the Hon. Common Council—GENTLEMEN: I herewith return to you ordinance No. [illegible], entitled "An ordinance providing for the time and manner of improving North Thirteenth street from the north line of B street to the south line of G street," without my signature, for the following reason, to wit: On the line of the proposed improvement is a deep ravine which must be very expensive in making the fill, so much so that the property liable for the improvement will not sell for enough to pay the expenses. Any deficiency must be paid from the general fund, which in this case would amount to a large sum, and the condition of the general fund at this time will not justify the city in assuming so heavy an expense. Respectfully submitted,

D. P. THOMPSON, Mayor.

The veto was sustained by a unanimous vote.

To the Honorable Common Council—GENTLEMEN: I would most respectfully call the attention of the common council to the necessity of rescinding a resolution passed at the last meeting of the common council authorizing the dismissal of the special policemen now doing duty in the city.

There are but six of these officers now doing duty on the streets. There are several others who are doing duty, but their duty is really but watchmen of particular property, such as the janitor of the public school building, the night watchman at the New Market block and perhaps one or two others. These six special officers are on duty every night and are under the control and direction of the chief of police. They do not cost the city anything as they are paid by the property owners whose property they are specially employed to protect. These are uniformed and are furnished with a star as are the regular patrolmen, and do fully as much duty. The effect of the passage of the resolution I refer to, is to reduce the night force of police, six men. It is true, an ordinance has been passed authorizing the regular force to be increased six men, but with the resolution dispensing with the use of special policemen, enforced, we are left no better off than before the ordinance increasing the regular force was passed.

These six officers do not cost the city anything. They are at least watchmen in the business portion of the city at night, and it is the wish of the people of the city that they should be retained. If there are any unfit officers among them the mayor and common council have the right to remove them and place fit officers in their places. It is certainly poor policy, on the part of the common council to reduce the night force of the police department at this season of the year, when the house breaking element begin to congregate here. During the year 1880 the witness fees paid by the city to special police officers was only $375.70, while the amount paid by persons arrested, was $809.70. The amount paid into the city treasury from fines collected on arrests made by special police officers was in city cases $2641 and in state cases $[illegible]. As to the section of the city charter that refers to the appointment of special policemen only on emergent occasions or in cases of necessity, my opinion is that a case of necessity exists when the good order and safety of the city is benefited by the appointment of special policemen, and I am of the opinion that such a state of affairs now exists and that the resolution referred to should be rescinded. Respectfully submitted,

D. P. THOMPSON.

Referred to committee on health and police.

The mayor made the following appointments for policemen: John Bing, D. W. Dobbins, Ed. Moody and John J. Byrne; referred to committee on health and police.

COMMUNICATIONS.

From H. Thielsen, chief engineer of the O. R. & N. Co., asking that the ordinance relating to the transportation and storage of gunpowder be slightly amended; placed on file.

From John Smith calling attention to an extortion of $10 by the pound master from him; referred to the committee on health and police.

From S. Mitchell and others asking for the improvement of North Twentieth street from the south line of D to the north line of E; granted.

From the Chinese mission school asking that the Chinese theater be closed at 12 P. M. on Sundays; placed on file.

REPORTS.

From the committee on streets and public property on the appointment of W. J. Kelly as superintendent of streets. A majority, Messrs. Holman and Keller reported in favor of confirmation. Mr. Hewett against. The appointment was rejected by the following vote: Ayes—Holman, Honeyman, Keller and Raleigh. Nays—Chittenden, Gerdes, Hewett, Kellogg and Nicklin.

From the same committee returning the proposition of W. T. Cottier to ventilate sewers with the statement that they had not had time to examine the matter. Cottier then addressed the council for a few minutes.

From the committee on health and police, reporting [illegible] the appointment of Levi Wing and Arthur Putnam as policemen.

Wing was confirmed by the following vote: Ayes—Holman, Honeyman, Keller, Kellogg, and Nicklin; Nays—Chittenden, Gerdes, Hewett and Raleigh.

Putnam was confirmed by a unanimous vote.

From the committee on health and police, recommending the adoption of rule 49, for the government of the police force; adopted. [These are the twelve sections submitted by Mayor Thompson two weeks ago and published in THE OREGONIAN.—REPORTER.]

From the judiciary committee, recommending that the bill of Perry G. Baker, for work on First street, be paid. The chairman of the committee stated in explanation that they had been advised by the city attorney that Baker would in all probability beat the city in a lawsuit; hence their recommendation. He also stated that inasmuch as Baker had violated his pledged word so often, to say nothing of the stipulation in the bond, the committee would under no circumstances accept a bid from him in future.

Mayor Thompson said that he would never in future sign a warrant for Baker or any one else who did street work with Chinese, unless compelled to do so by writ of court. This sentiment was echoed by every member of the council.

From the viewers appointed to assess damages and benefits in the extension of South Sixth street, from Caruthers to Sheridan; adopted.

[illegible]

The following bills against the city were ordered paid:

THE WATKINDS CASES.

A Decision Reached in the Cases of the State against W. H. Watkinds—A Balance Shown to be due Watkinds from the State.

In the matter of the state of Oregon vs. W. H. Watkinds and his bondsmen, a decision has at last been reached. These cases were brought against defendants in the circuit court for Marion county on the authority of Governor Thayer, nearly three years ago, and have been dragging their weary length through the judicial tribunal ever since. The testimony taken covers over 500 pages of legal cap paper and the complaints fill about 100 pages. The amount claimed by the state against Watkinds, as the total of the money out of which it was charged he had defrauded the state, reached the enormous sum of $100,000. The matters at issue were referred by Judge Boise to J. A. Stratton and at the late term of the court the referee made his report, which was last Saturday confirmed by the judge. The attorneys for the state moved to set aside the report of the referee, and three days were consumed in arguing the motion which was overruled by the court. It will be observed by the reports, which are published below, that in the first case, involving almost the entire amount claimed by the state, Watkinds obtains a judgment in the sum of $266 60. In another case the state obtains judgment against defendants for $202 08. Watkinds has appealed the case, which went against him, to the supreme court, claiming that the judgment was obtained for the reason that the referee was unable on account of the rulings, to take cognizance of the money overpaid by him to the state treasurer in settling with the U. S. marshal for keeping United States prisoners. This fact he expects to prove by the introduction of his cash accounts when the case comes back to the court below for trial. The attention of the committee appointed by the legislature to investigate the management of the prison under Watkinds' administration was called to the error in overpaying on settlement regarding the keeping of U. S. prisoners in a note, of which the following is a copy: "There is an error in my account with the U. S. marshal for keeping the U. S. prisoners, which I would ask to have your committee to carefully examine. When I turned over my books I informed Supt. Burch of the error, also state treasurer, Hon. A. H. Brown." The secretary of state was given the same information in Watkinds' last report to that officer. The $202 08 which Watkinds' books rendered him short, was deposited by him with the state treasurer at the time he went out of office, and after the committee reported that the books were correct, he drew the deposit. In the cases involving this litigation the state was represented by J. M. Thompson, A. C. Gibbs, W. H. Holmes, Claude Thayer and District Attorney Piper. The defense was conducted by N. B. Wright. When and where the final end of this expensive litigation will be reached is for the future to determine, but that the taxpayers of the state will foot the bill is a fact requiring no proof; and from the array of attorneys employed by the state the bill of expenses will scarcely be covered by the insignificant sum now claimed. Watkinds claims that these suits have damaged his business to the amount of many thousands of dollars and he now proposes to commence suit against the governor and J. M. Thompson for malicious prosecution.

Below are appended reports of the referee.

In the Circuit Court of the State of Oregon, for the County of Marion.

The state of Oregon plaintiff, vs. W. H. Watkinds, R. H. Dearborn, M. Meyer and Wesley Shannon defendants. No. 2966.

The referee having heard the allegations and proofs of the parties finds the following as conclusive of fact:

I. That on the 14th day of September, 1870, the defendant, W. H. Watkinds, was duly appointed Superintendent of the Oregon State Penitentiary, by Governor L. F. Grover, and on said day took and filed with the secretary of state, the oath of office, and made and filed his official bond as required by law with R. H. Dearborn, M. Meyer and Wesley Shannon as sureties, which bond was on said day duly approved by the governor. That exhibit "A" of plaintiff's complaint is a true copy of said bond. That on said 14th day of September, 1870, said Watkinds duly entered upon the discharge of the duties of his office as such superintendent, and continued to act as such superintendent, by virtue of said appointment until the 29th day of October, 1874.

II. That during the terms aforesaid said Watkinds as such superintendent received cash as follows, to wit:

From state treasury for payment of merit money to discharged convicts	$ 562 50
From sales of brick and other material belonging to pl'ff's collection of accounts notes, etc.	10,897 4[illegible]
	$11,459 9[illegible]

Which was disbursed as follows

Paid to state treasurer	2,050 00
Paid penitentiary building commissioners of new penitentiary building	6,730 0[illegible]
Paid on miscellaneous items as set out in exhibit "A" deft's answer	202 1[illegible]
Paid cash to discharged convicts on their receipts	2,236 1[illegible]
Paid cash expense of deft to San Francisco and return with escaped convict Schultz	233 75
	$11,459 9[illegible]

In addition to the above, defendant Watkinds paid out to discharged convicts during the terms aforesaid in cash $266 60—that is, his total disbursements between Sept. 14, 1870 and October 29, 1874 on account of the penitentiary, were $266 60 more than his total receipts. That all the payments mentioned in the last four items except $502 50 of the sum paid to discharged convicts were made by the defendant Watkinds upon the receipts of the various persons to whom the moneys were paid, and not by warrants drawn upon the state treasurer. That the money paid to the penitentiary building commissioners was the product, directly or indirectly, of convict labor. In addition to the above, B. F. Halisclaw the warden received for sales of brick $47 85 more than he paid over, and his account still is charged with that sum. If it shall be found as a matter of law that defendant Watkinds is responsible for moneys received by his wardens for sales of brick, this sum should be deducted from the balance otherwise due Watkinds, leaving $219 [illegible].

III. That the facts in relation to all the items mentioned in "Exhibit C" of plaintiff's complaint are as alleged in the separate answer of defendant, beginning with the word "defendants," in the last line of page 15, and ending with the word "penitentiary," in line 13, page 29, thereof; that the plaintiff has had the use and benefit of the articles received in exchange for such property and credits and that said articles received were worth to the plaintiff as much as the property exchanged for them.

IV. That between the dates aforesaid there was delivered at the penitentiary sand (including $118 56 worth delivered during Superintendent Berry's term of office and paid for by defendant Watkinds) which, at $2 00 per load of 1½ cubic yards, amounted to $2518 12, paid for out of the appropriations of 1870 and 1872, and also sand amounting at the same rate to $638, paid for out of the appropriation of 1874. That all of said sand has been used by plaintiff.

V. That during the period aforesaid no more wood was bought by defendant, or paid for, than was necessarily used for the penitentiary. It was admitted by counsel for plaintiff in his argument that the evidence upon this point did not sustain the allegations of the complaint.

VI. That during the period aforesaid R. H. Dearborn was employed by defendant as clerk of the penitentiary at a salary of fifty dollars per month, which sum was paid by plaintiff for said service. That the services rendered by said Dearborn were reasonably worth said sum. That during said period said Watkinds and Dearborn were equal partners in the saddlery and harness business in Salem, Oregon. That the salary received by said Watkinds as superintendent and by said Dearborn as clerk went into the receipts of the said firm of Watkinds & Dearborn and were then divided equally between them.

VII. That during the times aforesaid defendant Watkinds as said superintendent purchased tobacco to the value of $1200 00 and issued vouchers therefor which were paid by plaintiff. That said tobacco was by direction of said Watkinds issued as rations to those of the convicts who were at work, and was used by them. That such use was not necessary to the health of the convicts but was in accordance with the usages of some other prisons, and that said defendant furnished it because he believed the convicts would do more with it than without it.

VIII. That during the term aforesaid said Watkinds as such superintendent audited and allowed vouchers to said Watkinds & Dearborn, for rent of office and fuel and lights for same, amounting to $387 50, which was paid by plaintiff. That said money was divided in the same manner as that mentioned in paragraph VI. of this report.

IX. That during the time aforesaid said defendant as such superintendent purchased for use at the prison alcoholic liquors to the value of $377. That said liquors were chiefly used in medicines for convicts by direction of the attending physician, and partly issued to guards and other employes of the prison, but the quantity so employed cannot be ascertained or approximated by the evidence.

X. It was admitted by counsel for plaintiff in his argument that the allegations of the complaint as to the purchase of meat by defendant Watkinds for use at the penitentiary are not sustained by the evidence, and I find the facts accordingly.

XI. Counsel for plaintiff also abandoned the claim against Watkinds based upon purchases of merchandise of M. Meyer & Son, and as to these allegations I therefore find for the defendant.

XII. That during the period aforesaid defendant Watkinds as such superintendent, bought for use at the penitentiary, and used there, drugs and medicines to the value of $2[illegible]. That said drugs were purchased and used upon the order of the physician of the penitentiary. That the average number of convicts in said penitentiary during said period was 97. That during the last two years, drugs and medicines for the penitentiary, with an average of 180 convicts, have cost about $25 per quarter.

XIII. That during said period, defendant as such superintendent, entered into an agreement with M. L. Savage whereby Savage was to deliver at the penitentiary fir wood at $3 a cord. That said wood was to be cut by convicts, for which plaintiff was to receive $1 12½ a cord. That under said contract said Savage delivered to plaintiff at the penitentiary 995 cords, all of which was cut by convicts. That there was an arrangement between said Savage and Robt. Thompson, deputy warden of the penitentiary, by which it was agreed that each convict engaged in cutting said wood should have $1 a cord for whatever amount he might cut in excess of a cord a day. That under said arrangement 200 cords were cut by convicts, over the prescribed stint, for which Savage paid to Thompson, for the convicts who had cut the same, $125. That defendant Watkinds in pursuance of said agreement, issued to said Savage a voucher for 995 cords of wood at $3 a cord, and deducted therefrom the cost of cutting only 795 cords $1 12½ a cord, leaving a balance in Savage's favor of $2158 13, which was paid by plaintiff.

XIV. That the transfer to the penitentiary building commissioners by defendant Watkinds of cash, accounts and material used in the construction of the penitentiary building was substantially detailed in the biennial reports of said Watkinds and said commissioners for the two fiscal years ending August 31st, 1872. That Governor Grover in his message to the legislature of 1872 directed their attention to these reports. That said legislature appointed a joint committee to examine the accounts of said Watkinds and said commissioners and this committee reported said accounts to be correct. That said report of said committee was adopted by the senate, but not, so far as appears, by the house. That said Watkinds in his reports to Governor Grover, in 1872 and 1874 set forth in detail the amounts of cash paid by him to discharged convicts and for other purposes.

J. A. STRATTON, Referee.

In the Circuit Court of the State of Oregon for the County of Marion.

The state of Oregon plaintiff, vs. W. H. Watkinds, Joseph Holman, R. H. Dearborn, and M. Meyer defendants.

The referee having heard the allegations and proofs of the parties finds the following facts:

I. That on the 26th day of October, 1874 the defendant, W. H. Watkinds, was duly appointed superintendent of the Oregon state penitentiary by Gov. L. F. Grover, and on said day took the oath of office, and executed his official bond, with Joseph Holman, R. H. Dearborn and M. Meyer as sureties, as required by law, and on the 29th day of October, 1874 duly filed said bond in the office of the secretary of state, and thereupon entered upon the discharge of the duties of said office, and continued so to act as such superintendent until the 15th day of February, 1877.

II. That during the times aforesaid, said Watkinds as such superintendent received from various sources cash as follows to wit:

From state treasury for payment to discharged convicts	1509 [illegible]
From collections on notes and accounts, sales of brick and in [illegible] labor of convicts	2,[illegible] 75
Total	$ [illegible]

Which was disbursed by him as follows:

To state treasurer	$2,521 73
To discharged convicts on their receipts	1,266 35
For miscellaneous expenses on account of prisoners	[illegible] 68
Total	$3,819 76
Leaving on hand cash on hand	$ 468 [illegible]
Or, allowing Watkinds credit for amount of cash paid out during previous term, in excess of receipts	$ 2[illegible]
Balance still due	$ 202 08

III. That the facts in relation to the items charged in Exhibit C. of plaintiff's complaint are as alleged in the separate answer of defendant Watkinds beginning with the word "admit" in line 11 of page 7 thereof, and ending with the word "penitentiary" in line 10 of page 18 of said answer. That plaintiff has had the use and benefit of the articles received in exchange for said property and credits and that said articles received were worth to the plaintiff as much as the property exchanged for them.

IV. That the hogs alleged in plaintiff's complaint to have been disposed of by defendant were disposed of as alleged in defendant's answer. That they were worth forty dollars, and that the boiler received in exchange for them was worth that sum to plaintiff.

V. That between the dates aforesaid said defendant audited, allowed and issued to D. M. Watkinds, a voucher for sand for sand delivered by said D. M. Watkinds to the plaintiff during the previous term of office of said defendant. That said sand was delivered at the agreed price of two dollars a load and was worth said sum and was used by the plaintiff.

VI. That during the term aforesaid said defendant Watkinds as said superintendent purchased tobacco to the value of $777 [illegible] and issued vouchers therefor which were paid by plaintiff. That said tobacco was by direction of said defendant issued in rations to those of the convicts who were at work. That such use was not necessary to the health of said convicts, but was in accordance with the usage of some other prisons, and that said defendant so furnished it, believing that the convicts would do more work with it than without it.

VII. That from the 29th day of October, 1874, to the 31st day of August, 1876, R. H. Dearborn was employed by said defendant Watkinds as clerk of the penitentiary at a salary of fifty dollars a month, which sum was paid by plaintiff for the service of said clerk. That said service was reasonably worth said sum. That from said 29th day of October, 1874, till some time during the year 1875 (the precise date cannot be fixed from the testimony) said Watkinds and Dearborn were equal partners in the saddlery and harness business in Salem, Oregon. That while said partnership continued the salary received by said Watkinds as superintendent and by Dearborn as clerk went into the receipts of the firm of Watkinds & Dearborn as assets, and was thus shared equally between them.

VIII. That the legislature of 1876 appointed a joint committee under F. J. R. R. No. 2 (laws 1876, p. 170) to examine the books, accounts and management of of the superintendent of the state penitentiary, during the two previous years, which committee reported that they "had examined the books and accounts of the superintendent and compared them with the vouchers on file in his office, with which they found them to agree." That neither house took any action upon said report further than to order the same printed.

A party near Canyonville killed a wild cat the other day and cooked and ate the same.

After a few cool days the thermometer went up to 89 degrees in Roseburg last week.

R. A. Woodruff cut 75 acres of wheat last week near Roseburg which yielded 1872 bushels. The grain was fine and plump, and samples of it will be sent east.

It is rumored that work will be resumed at the New Idria mines in a few days, which will make lively times in that community again. The mine will doubtless prove a success under the present management. Those who have been laboring so earnestly for its development will be amply paid for their energy and skill.

A little child of John Winters, on Starvecut, Douglas county aged three years, about five days ago was left by her mother near the fireplace. The mother went out to the creek near by for a pailful of water. While getting the water the mother heard the child scream, and rushing back found her nearly burned to death. A spark from the fire had set the little one's dress ablaze, and the burns were so severe as to render life uncertain. But slight hopes are entertained of her recovery.

The horse Billy Nelson that fell dead upon the race track at Walla Walla Saturday, was owned by Si Nelson and valued at $5000. This horse is known to sportsmen as "Blue Mountain Boy," and he was of Bellfounder stock.

Horace W. Thielsen, paymaster of the O. R. & N. Co., arrived at Walla Walla on a special train Sunday evening, with plenty of money for the railroad laddies. The car was guarded by a detachment of determined looking men, who carried repeating rifles and were, in the phraseology of the yellow-covered novels, "armed to the teeth." The employes of the company at that point were paid their monthly stipend Monday and those at Dayton Tuesday.

The track of the Northern Pacific is now completed to Lake Prescott, 20 miles west of Lake Pend d'Oreille, 208 miles from Wallula, and daily trains run regularly to Lake Prescott. The grade is completed 10 miles further, and a large force is at work on a trestle 2200 feet long and 60 feet high in some portions. The trestle requires 750,000 feet of lumber. It will be finished within two weeks. Pile-driving for the bridge over the head of Pend d'Oreille Lake is being pushed and it will be crossed before December 1st. The midchannel piles are 110 feet long and two feet in diameter. Four pile-drivers are at work. The line is located 60 miles beyond the lake, and grading will be vigorously crowded until spring. The company has only 900 men, and were never able to get any more during the season. If 2000 able-bodied men, whatever their race or color, will apply, every one will get employment for the winter.

BAKER CITY RACES.

A Resume of the Four Days' Running and Trotting.

The attendance on Monday, the first day, was rather light. In the mile heat race for three year olds, Dundream, Billy Combs and Jesse B. were entered. In the first heat Billy Combs came through in 1:49, a length ahead of Dundream, with Jesse B. thirty yards behind the second horse. The second heat was also won by Billy Combs. Time 1:49 ¼. This race was for a purse of $250. Premium, a Montana mare, Glenco, a Boise county stallion, and Red Boy, a Boise City horse, were entered for the half mile heats. Premium was the favorite, selling in the pools for $20 against $7 for each of the others. Premium won easily. Time 50 seconds. Glenco was second. In the second heat Premium won by a length, Red Boy coming in second. Time 49½. This race was for a purse of $400.

SECOND DAY.

Trotting race, mile heats, two best in three; purse $100. Entries were—Seneca, Sheridan and Fred Walker. Purse was won by Walker, distancing both the other horses in the first heat. Time 2:52½. In the running race of a quarter of a mile, the entries were—Red Bird, Swamp John, Old Deck and Brown Sam. This was a pretty race, the horses running close together, Sam winning by half a neck, Red Bird second. Time 25¼.

THIRD DAY.

The Wood River horse, Hamlet, Glencoe and Chubb were entered for the 600-yard dash. The first named horse brought $25, the second $12, and the third $1. After taking up an hour with false starts, they were tapped off quite even. Glencoe was three lengths ahead of Chubb at the outcome, Wood River, the favorite first, on the wrong end. The race for $1000, free for all first-class horses, was very exciting. The entries were Red Boy, Joe Howell, a Montana horse, and the other a three-year-old. Red Boy first choice in the pools and Howell next. Red boy won in

THREE STRAIGHT HEATS,

Coming in a neck ahead of the Montana stallion the first heat. The next heat Red Boy took the lead from the start and kept it all the way through, and on the last round won by two lengths. Jesse B. was distanced in the first heat. Time 1:40, 1:40½, 1:40¼.

For the fourth day Glencoe won the mile dash and Lady Faustina the trotting race. In the two mile dash on the same day there were three entries, Red Boy, Billy Combs and Howell, the former winning in 3:41.

Returning to Business.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 21.—To-day business has returned to its usual channels, except in the activity displayed in draping the city. This is being carried forward on a [illegible] hand with [illegible] good taste, and before the day closed the business part of the city will be completely robed in the trappings of woe. The sombreness of the decorations are in marked contrast with the brilliant display prepared for the recent celebration of the fourth of July.

A Assessment.

Bullion levies an assessment of $1.

BY STATE TELEGRAPH.

Oregon's Capital Observes the Day of Sorrow.

SALEM, Sept. 21.—The news of the death of President Garfield reached here about 8:30 P. M. on Monday evening, and was at once followed by the tolling of the city fire bell and the church bells. Early on yesterday morning the business men commenced draping their stores and offices with crape, until scarcely a business house remains without the insignia of woe. The display in front of A. B. Croasman's, Frank Baum[illegible], L. S. Bates and J. & M. Rosenberg & Co.'s is unusually neat and artistic. The flag is floating at half-mast over the capitol building, while from every engine house, the post office, the court house buildings, Willamette University and several of the church buildings festoons of crape tell the story of bereavement. The city council last evening appointed a committee to take charge of the memorial exercises whenever a date should be fixed for observing the same, and all public buildings will close on the day of the funeral.

WASHINGTON TERRITORY.

Gov. Newell's Proclamation.

SEATTLE, Sept. 21.—A proclamation has been issued by his excellency Gov. W. A. Newell, of which the following is a copy:

President Garfield is dead, and his mortal remains will be consigned to the tomb on Monday, the 26th day of September. An afflicted country deplores the untimely death of the departed patriot statesman and president, and gives expression, homage to his memory. Conforming to that universal sentiment, I, Wm. A. Newell, governor of Washington territory, do recommend to the people that they do abstain from secular business on the designated day and consecrate it to the observance of such funeral services and ceremonies as may be ordained by them in their respective localities. Given at Olympia on the 21st day of September, 1881.

WM. A. NEWELL, Governor.

By N. H. OWINGS, Secretary

Resolutions Passed.

COLFAX, Sept. 21.—At a meeting of the citizens last night the following resolutions were passed:

WHEREAS, The sad intelligence reaches us that James A. Garfield, the farmer, soldier, statesman and president of the United States, is dead; therefore, be it

Resolved, That we, the citizens of Colfax, hereby express the deepest sentiment of grief that a man of the people, from the people, elected and honored by the people, is removed from the broad field of his usefulness, and that our deep, heartfelt sympathies are extended to his family in this dark hour of their bereavement, which is also a bereavement to the nation.

Resolved, That the fiend incarnate who fired the shot which lodged the fatal bullet in the body of our honored president, and which caused his death, should no longer be remembered among men and nations, but as the vilest wretch that ever cursed the earth by his unwelcome presence.

COMMITTEE.

BRITISH COLUMBIA.

Victoria will Observe the Funeral Day.

VICTORIA, Sept. 21.—Flags on all public and private buildings, the dockyard and warships, will remain at half mast until after the president's funeral. During the performance of the funeral rites the Victoria garrison artillery will fire a salute of 100 guns. The American consulate, Wells, Fargo & Co.'s office and other buildings, are being draped in mourning.

Shipping Notes.

Steamship Idaho sailed at 11 o'clock yesterday morning for San Francisco, in charge of the first officer.

Bark Woodbury from Australia for Hastings mill is in the outer harbor.

Steamship Los Angeles arrived at Nanaimo from Sitka at 6 o'clock last evening.

Stallion Sale.

Mac, formerly John Duncan, a well known stallion and formerly owned at San Francisco, has been sold to go to Tacoma. Price paid $2500.

Flying Squadron to Arrive.

It is now reported that the British flying squadron will shortly arrive at Esquimalt from the Fijis.

Every staff in the city has a British or American flag drooping at half mast. Among them are the American consulate, government buildings, Dominion agents' offices, the city hall, all the engine houses, the steamers and vessels in harbor, ships of war, vessel and dockyard at Esquimalt, Welch, Rithet & Co., several of the hotels and saloons and many places of business and private residences. Many citizens have called upon Mr. Francis, the American consul, to express sympathy.

Laborers Wanted.

Bricklayers and laborers are urgently required on the drydock.

KINNEY'S PATENT

TUBULAR FOUNTAIN FENCE

FOR CEMETERY LOTS.

The cut represents a single grave enclosure. The fence is constructed of tubular pipes; when filled with water serves not only as a fence, but vases are attached, in which flowers, plants and vines may be placed. These are supplied with a constant moisture caused by the evaporation of water from the pipes through the vases. By one filling the fountain plants grow luxuriantly for months without further attention. Nothing can be more appropriate for the living than to adorn and beautify the graves of departed loved ones. The fence is made in any size and supplied for graves or marble tablets, for the carrying of the scripture for the dead. The canopy on which are shown the flower basket is intended for the growing of vines, all of which is shown in the cut. Wherever this fence has been seen it has met with universal praise.

Parties wishing to secure territory or have fences put up, will please apply to A. WALKER, Salem, Or.

IN THE CIRCUIT COURT OF THE UNITED States for the District of Oregon. S. P. Sleppy, plaintiff, vs. Geo. L. Howard, Chas. H. Lee and the Bank of Commerce—Saint Louis, defendants. Now at this day comes the plaintiff by E. W. Bingham, his attorney, and moves the court for an order requiring the above named defendants, Geo. L. Howard, Chas. H. Lee, and the Bank of Commerce—Saint Louis, to appear and plead, answer or demur to the complaint herein: And it appearing to the court from the complaint herein, and from the affidavit of said E. W. Bingham, now herein filed, that this action is brought to enforce a legal claim to certain personal property now within this district, and that said defendants Geo. L. Howard and Chas. H. Lee are not inhabitants of, nor found within this District of Oregon, and have not voluntarily appeared in this action, and that they are citizens of the state of Missouri and residents of Saint Louis in the said State of Missouri; and that said defendant the Bank of Commerce—Saint Louis, is a corporation duly incorporated under the laws of the state of Missouri, having its principal place of business in Saint Louis, Missouri, and that it cannot, nor can any one be found for it upon whom service of summons can be made in this district of Oregon, and that it has not voluntarily appeared in this action—It is ordered, that said defendants, Geo. L. Howard, Chas. H. Lee, and the Bank of Commerce—Saint Louis, and each of them enter their or its appearance in this action and plead, answer or demur to the complaint herein within sixty days after the service of a copy of this order upon him or it which service is hereby authorized and directed to be made.
